“ Glen was an amazing person to sit around and spend time with or talk to. He was always cracking a joke or setting one up. His jokes were just the surface of his kind demeanor, though. Deep down he genuinely cared strongly for those close to him, and could be serious when he needed to be. I will never forget the times in the Mardis house eating homemade ice cream and playing video games.

“Glen was larger than life, when he walked into a room everyone knew it. That smile, laugh and over top personality could not be ignored. When he talked about his wife and daughters, you could feel the love he had in his heart for them. I've heard people described as "never having met a stranger", that was Glen to a Tee. Glen was dedicated to his customers and team mates to a fault. He would not willingly leave either one in the middle of a problem, nor could he tell someone asking for help No.

I called Glen my friend for over 20 years, I loved him and miss him terribly already. Rest in peace my dear friend.

“ I hired Glen 34 years ago this past March. He immediately was a friend. Glen was always on the edge: happy and full of life, mad and ready for a fight, empathetic and ready to help, and he was always Glen. He could make you laugh, he could invite you to tease him, he could drive you to distraction by apologizing for this and that, yet you always liked him. I loved Glen and am so glad he is now in the presence of Jesus. Thank you Glen for being in my life.

“ I met Glen in 1988...and we worked together for many years in a nationwide animal organization and shared a large love of that animal. Becoming good friends, he met our family and by 1995 my second daughter nabbed him. I miss my crazy, goofy friend more than anyone will know.
